Use extreme caution when moving, transferring or releasing a trapped animal. Use protective gloves to minimize risk of scratches or bites. Animals can cause serious injury. They can carry disease that could lead to serious illness. Always be alert and undistracted when working with traps.

Bait options: You want to use a “food” type attractant for trapping Gray Squirrel and other Rodents (Flying Squirrel, Red Squirrel, Chipmunk, Rats). Many commercial baits are available, for example the time-tested WCS™ NB Squirrel & Rodent paste bait which appeals to multiple senses due to its formulation. Other baits that can be used include peanuts in shells, whole black walnuts, pecans or sunflower seeds pressed into your favorite paste bait. Also various nut butters applied to one of the nuts mentioned above.

Animal Release: In preparation for opening the door, have a stick or other item available to prop door open until the animal leaves the trap. Stand to the side or behind the trap and open the door. Step back to allow the animal to exit and move on before picking up the trap.

Cleaning traps between uses is strongly recommended.
